This is the animal just recovered at Aberdeen. One remarkable feature of Hood's dealings has been that he niways demanded and received a fair market price for his stolen mules and horses, and would higgle for an hour over a $5 bill. His ap-pearance is striking. He is about six feet and a half tall, awkward and ongainly, with a small head and long neck, legs and arms. His hair streggles down over his ears and eyes, and his beard, though stunted, is ragged, and gives him such a weird and savage appearance that one would walk many a mile rather than risk meeting him in a dark corner. His photograph now has an honored place in the rogues' gallery of the chiel's HOTEL ARRIVALS.
